Armored Columns Surging Through Southern Poland

Reds Sweep Toward German Frontier

- Russian armored forces surged through southern Poland today to within 64 miles of the heavily-fortified German-Silesian frontier amid mounting indications that the new Soviet winter offensive may soon spread over the entire eastern front from the Baltic to Yugoslavia.

Marshal Ivan S. Koney's new thrust, which in three days has carried across the Mida river on a 67-mile front and driven a deep wedge into the Warsaw-Krakow defence line, appears to be part of a great Red Army general offensive to clear Poland, liberate Warsaw and carry the battle to the industrial areas of southeastern Germany.

(Berlin reported late last night that other powerful Soviet forces had begun attacks west of the Vistula at Magnuszew and Pulawy, 33 and 65 miles southeast of Warsaw and along the Narew river north of the Polish capital. Earlier German broadcasts told of new Russian attacks in East Prussia.) Fighting in sub-zero temperatures

Municipal Tax Plan in Canada Called "Absurd"

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 15. (CP)—The housing shortage in Canada is a result of "absurd" municipal regulations affecting property taxation," Jamies on Bone, president of the Ontario Property Owners' Association, said today in an address to a ser-vice club luncheon here.

(CP)—Mrs. Blanche Howey died in hospital early today, bringing to two the number of deaths resulting from a terrific explosion which shattered her one-storey brick Dr. D. N. MacCharles of Medicine home home last night. Three other persons were injured.

The explosion lifted the house up from its foundation, scattering parts of it like a pack of cards over a wide area. Part of the roof came down near a neighboring house. Other parts of the build-ing were found hanging in trees on the property. But the main part of the house settled back on the foundation, a tangled and broken pile of timber, bricks and mortar with house furnishings strewn in every direction.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15 .- The Hollywood stars got lots of Christmas presents from servicemen this year. One soldier went out to Betty Grable's house and handed her a sack of popcorn and Betty was so touched she kissed him. I don't know whether he told other servicemen or not, but the next morning Betty's house had the only white Christmas in Hollywood.

And a lot of the boys overseas remembered those shows I did for them and sent me Christmas packages. I remembered the shows, too, so I opened them under water.

A boy in Paris sent me a very useful present.

The note said: "To Bob Hope, something from the western front to take care of your eastern front." And I thought Crosby had bought up all the girdles in Paris!

A lot of the boys didn't send me presents. They just wrote letters telling what they wished me for the New Year. But I'm going to be big about it, especially since my lawyer told me I can't sue anyone in the service.

BOB HOPE But seriously, those kids really keep their sense of humor. Like one kid whose mother I know. She got a Christmas note from Leyte and it was dated back when we were buying land there at the rate of something like one American life per foot. The kid's note said: "Sorry, Mom, I can't get away to buy you an old-time present this year, but hang onto this for Christmas, 1954, and we'll spend it together." And he sent her a bond. There's a boy with a star spangled heart.

New Offensive Troops, Guts Stopped Nazis Not Generals or Strategy

Alberta Soldiers Blow Up Dike on Top of Germans

WITH CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ALRIATIC, Jan. 15-(AP)-The Governor General's Horse Guards, a Toronto armored reconnaissance unit, was the formation which helped liquidate a German company last Thursday night, it was permitted to disclose

Aided by Italian partisans, the Toronto unit killed 22, wounded eight and took 40 prisoners when the Germans sought to establish an outpost on the south side of the Reno river south of the spit of land separating Lake Commaccho from the Adriatic, about 10 miles north of Ravena. The Germans were attacked by the Candians in tanks after British gunners laid down a barrage.

On Saturday, meanwhile, other

Germans were wiped out by Alberta troops on the Senio river near Fusignano, 13 miles north and slightly east of Faenza.

Two Alberta infantrymen, who saw shovels coming through the enemy-held dike on the opposite side of the river, made a note of the spot. That night an enemy patrol came through. The Canadians let the Germans infiltrate their positions and then crossed the river where they mined and booby-trapped the tunnel. The Germans returned a half hour later and had just got nicely in the tunnel when the mines ex-ploded, causing the dike to cave in on top of them.

Anglo-American Relations Surveyed by Noted Critics On Both Sides of Atlantic

In the current wave of comment and criticism on Anglo-American relations, The Associated Press asked two well-known critics to discuss the thoughts prevailing on each side of the Atlantic ocean. These are some of the answers to which we could make to recent American criticisms. What I am asked to do, however, is to turn to the other side of the picture and say what it is we complain about. Well, above all perhaps, we com-

Alberta in the Money

After all the official doubting during the late summer, Canada did better in 1944 than keep its bacon commitment to Britain, 196 million pounds better. The agreement calls for a billion pounds during 1944 and '45. Last year's deliveries ran to 696 millions.

But this does not mean that, because last year's shipments went over the 500 million average, this year's shipments must fall under that figure. The billion pounds named in the contract is only the guaranteed minimum. Britain will take as much more as the Dominion can supply.

In addition to pork products, the Meat Board last year also bought 132 million pounds of Canadian beef and 1,150,000 pounds of mutton and lamb.

Meat shipments to Britain during the year totalled in money value more than $194,000,000. The hog was of course the main contributor to this huge item of farm products income, pork products accounting for $167,000,000.

Whoever in Canada may have failed to reach his mark in war production, no such fault can be found with the farmer, and in no other line of food-production are his achievements more outstanding than in the supply of meat animals. Despite the enormous amounts going overseas, meat is not rationed in Canada and the home consumer is free to eat as much as he pleases.

Interest is lent to the figures cited because Alberta happens to be the biggest hog-producer among the provinces, A cor-responding proportion of last year's $167,-000,000 derived from pork shipments to Britain came to farmers in this province and was put in circulation through the channels of Alberta business.

Farmer Bankers

Professor Grant MacEwan, of the department of animal husbandry at the University of Saskatchewan, has been appointed a director of the Royal Bank; and Mr. John McCague, an Ontario farmer, has been added to the board of the Bank of These appointments seem to indicate a disposition on the part of the banks to give agriculture a voice in the shaping of bank policies and the adjustment of banking practice to farmer needs. If that is a general trend it is in the right direction, alike for the interests of the banking institutions and those of the nation.

Farming is the basic industry of Canada. It produces the raw materials which a great number of secondary industries convert into consumer commodities. It is the biggest employer of labor, and its product exceeds that of any other branch of enterprise in use value and money worth.

other industry affects the general' business conditions so widely or more certainly. When the farmers are doing well, employment and trade are invariably satisfactory. When the farmers are experiencing hard times, the general reaction is no less definite.

Farmers require bank credit to carry on their operations. How much they need, what they can afford to pay for it, and how much it is safe for them to borrow, are matters which outstanding farmers and authorities on farm operation should be better able to judge than persons engaged in other occupations. The appearance of, such men on the directorates of the banks is a proper recognition of the importance of the industry, and a hopeful sign for the future of the country.

The Forgotten War

Tokyo's troubles are not confined to the shrinkage of its island areas of conquest. Its grip on Burma has also been loosened, to the point where correspondents are permitted to say that a general withdrawal of Japanese forces is now taking place. Burma was the base from which the invasion of India was attempted something more than a year ago. Last March the Allies opened their counter-offensive, on four separate fronts, each separated by hundreds of miles of mountain and jungle from the others. British, American and Chinese troops were involved. The difficulties of the campaign were enormous. Supplies had to be flown to the columns operating in remote areas not reachable by ground transport. Advance was necessarily slow. The Japs fought stubbornly, witness the fact that in ten months only 600 prisoners were taken, while the Allies counted 50,000 enemy dead.

These far-separated forces are now converging on Mandalay and the Irrawaddy to the south, the northern area having been cleared. The bloodless seizure of the port of Akyab early this month signified the withdrawal of Jap troops from a region which they formerly fought resolutely to

More than 30,000 square miles of Burms had been recovered at the end of 1944. It was a far from costless campaign, the British 14th Army alone sustaining 27,- 000 casualties. British forces engaged number 300,000, while Sino-American troops make up 100,000 more.

Softening resistance indicates that the enemy may have decided that Burma can no longer be held; and in any case the prospect is that they will be cleared out of the country before many months have passed Then the famous supply road to China will again be open from end to end, and Burma from being a base for Japanese attack on India will become a base for an Allied attack on Siam.

Nothing succeeds like success. The Turks have finally made up their minds which side is going to win, and have opened the Dardanelles for Allied supply ships carrying cargoes to Russia.

The Government of Albania, wherever it has been residing while the Germans occupied the country, is now asking for Allied recognition. As there seems to be no question about the anti-Nazi character of the ministry, it will no doubt get the credentials asked for. In return the Albanians should be able to put in the field an army capable of making up in spirit what it may lack in numbers. No country was attacked by the Fascists with less cause, nor treated with more cruelty,

A correspondent says Nazi headmen are encouraging German industrialists to ship money out of the country, whereas hitherto it has been a penal offence to export cash or credit. If so, the high-ups must be counting on the softness of the democracies to allow them to take up residence abroad, despite the promises that they will get the punishment they have earned. There may be nothing in the story that they are thus feathering nests for themselves in some neutral state, but it is entirely consistent with the known belief of the war-makers that the democracies haven't "hardness" enough to hang them.

Sir. There is no individual on the mand enabling them to buy is the real way to the curing of unemployment. In pre-war days much unemployment was caused by artificially "rigged" high finance which kept the masses of people consumption-poor in a world which was abundantly commodity-rich. Economist experts tell us that post-war depressions are inevitable. But why? Surely common sense and science can overcome such maladjustments in a world of planned enterprise.

Sir: There is no individual on this planet who did more than the wild of the concompetitive.

WITH THE RCAF IN ITALY Jan. 15—(CP)—FO. Jimmy Waslyk a Toronto pilot with the crack City of Windsor fighter-bomber squad ron, thinks he set some kind of record by bailing out of his air craft three times in one trip.

Waslyk was flying over the Adriatic front when his plane was badly damaged and set after a bombing run. "I kept the throttle on to avoid a backfire and pulled up to about 7,000 feet", said the filer.

"Then I jumped. But my dinghy caught and there I was sitting out over space. So I climbed back and tried it again but this time my foo caught and I was hanging upside down while the kite did a series of turns. So I climbed back again and the third time made it".

Waslyk woke up with "an old Italian crone kissing me" and soon was transferred to bed in hospital.

Play on Chopin Wins Success At Music Club

"My Heart to Poland." a mus-ical play based on the life and music of Chopin, was presented at the regular meeting of the Wo-men's Musical Club Saturday af-ternoon at the Masonic Temple. The hall was crowded to capacity with an audience aggregating about 600 persons.

The play was written by Pauline Morrish and Alan Fraser of Cal-gary. It was produced by James Spillios, while Mrs. F. W. Mills, Mrs. William Mose and Mrs. H. S. Craig formed the committee in

The cast was drawn mainly from

The authors selected for treatment, several highlight incidents in the life of the great Polish composer. They chose well, and the various scenes reflected admirably the outstanding episodes in the career of a composer that was all too brief.

Taken as a whole the play was a success that will take its place alongside any of the programs given at regular club meetings this

Elsie Muriel Mills was entrusted with the difficult assignment of portraying Chopin. She made an excellent job of it. Others in the large cast, all of whom merit warm praise for their work, were Phyllis Vango, John Armstrong Popplestone, Joyce Far-rell, Sherrill Lanyon, Jack Fowler, Mills Parker, Harry Blackburn, Glen Matheson and Mary Lou Lister.

Of course, theoretically, there in every marriage. If the husband brings home the bacon, the wife should cook it, and it is easy to see how a man accepts this pleasant arrangement and feels that when he comes home tired of nights, af-ter a hard day's work, he is entitled to flap down and rest his feet.

And he forgets that his wife has been on her feet longer than he has, and that she is still on them when he is taking his ease with his pipe and paper. So I think that every husband who cannot provide his wife with servants should lend her a hand with the housework.

I like the way Solomon reaoned out today's hand. You can see that his whole problem was getting rid of that five of clubs. He could have tried the spade finesse but, of course, that would fail. Solomon elected to play for squeeze. He won the opening lead, ruffed a diamond, returned to his hand with a club, ruffed another diamond, cashed the ace and queen of trumps, and then came back to his hand with a club, picked up the other trump, and when he cashed the last two trump. These are examples of typical 1945 spring suits. Unlike styles of other years, this season's suits are definitely feminine, with bows, few lapels and modish pockets and buttons. The hand-knit woolen model at the left is styled like a jumper, and depends for sleeves upon a black and white print blouse, which furnishes the cue for accessorized gloves and Handled also like a dress is the two-toned white and navy suit, right, which has a saucy taffeta bow lodged at the neckline and pockets outlined with saddle-stitched navy leather.

Stalin Does Not Believe In Leading Ace of Trumps

LONDON, Jan. 15 .- (CP-Reuters) - The Russians do not believe in leading with the ace of trumps. Their strategy all along has been to puzzle the German high command as much with what they might do as by what they actually do. Marshal Ivan Koney's offensive in Poland is perhaps the jack or queen; the king and the ace are still in Stalin's hands.

This is one of the causes of German uncertainty about the real nature of the Soviet assault. Konev's bridgehead force is made up according to German estimates of four infantry armies and one tank army; altogether about 40 Infantry divisions and eight tank brigades with an exceptional allocation of artillery. After making allowance for the me of the long Hungarian front, where it is estimated that another to Russian divisions are engaged. this still leaves a formidable and uncommitted force of Russian infantry and armor, probably some-thing like 150 first-line divisions and about another 60 to 70 divisions FIRST OBJECTIVE Koev's first objective is to make it impossible for the German high command to derive any practical benefits even if they guess Russian intentions correctly. Koney is making for the lateral communications immediately behind the German lines. He has cut the main road and Warsaw. The opening phase of this battie is essentially a struggle for lateral communications.

This has been one of the chief suzzied some people, and un-ustifiably irked others. The Rusaians had not only to restore the ordinary Polish railway system scorched by the Germans, they had lso to create a system of lateral feeder roads and railways from the East Prussian frontier down to the Carpathians.
